Metro is a world-class public transportation system. There are six color-coded rail lines: Red, Orange, Silver, Blue, Yellow, and Green. The direction the train is traveling towards is denoted by the last station on the line the train is servicing. Below are some tips to help you ride Metro like a native Washingtonian:

- ❖ When using the many escalators throughout the system if you are going to stand, stay to the right. If you're walking, do so on the left.
- ❖ You can calculate the estimated time and cost of your trip at www.wmata.com
- ❖ There is no eating or drinking on Metro; violating this policy may result in a hefty fine.
- ❖ Make sure to allow customers to exit the train before you board. When boarding, move to the center of the car to make room for more customers boarding down the line.

PAHO is located a convenient 4 blocks away from Foggy Bottom station on the Blue, Orange or Silver lines. It is approximately a 15-minute walk from Farragut North station on the Red line. For a map of Metro and directions, please see pages 4 and 5 of this logistical note.
